

ACPC Annual Research Award

The ACPC Annual Research Award recognizes high quality research by a resident.

Criteria

- High quality research by a resident that shows evidence of innovative thinking; and
- The research must be carried out during the individual's residency training in an accredited Canadian program, but may be submitted for consideration up to two years after completion of the training.

Nomination Procedure

Only one candidate may be nominated by each department of psychiatry. Only academic departments in good standing with ACPC may make submissions. Re-entries will be considered when supported by the required documentation.

Submissions for the award must include:

- A two-page letter of nomination emphasizing how the nominee meets the award criteria;
- Up to 3 published papers or documents;
- Academic CV;
- 300 word bio-sketch emphasizing career accomplishments related to the award;
- One electronic picture.

One electronic copy of the complete application must be submitted to the Chairperson of ACPC/ADDPC by September 11, 2020.
